FINE SPORT AT BRIGHTON

Rainy Weather Did Not Keep the Regulars Away.

INFECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.1 BRIGHTON BEACH RACE TRACE, July 24.-The rain-or-shine crowd that goes to Brighton turned out in full force to-day and the way in which they bet their money would lead one to think there was no such thing as poverty

od. This is a somewhat ancient expression, Considerable grumbling was indulged in out it is the only one which exactly its. The over the tardiness in which the horses are an fell in torrents here this morning, and sent to the post in the first race. If the Assoa field where the steeplechase was to be clation would see to it that the horses were sent to the post more promptly it would give more general satisfaction.

The rain of this morning made the track a The card of seven races to-day was very

The card of seven races to-day was very poor in point of class, there not being a real good horse in the whole lot.

The first race was for horses that have run and never won. Willie L., who ran well in his previous races, opened up the favorite, with Ely, Idea and Patti the next in demand. The talent watted until Willie L. went back a peg or two and then played him. He won very easily, while Patti had to be whipped out to beat Toss Up.

The second race found Lallah opening an even money favorite, with Irregular second choice. The others received very little support.

THE TURF.

Jockey George Taylor Explains Dropping His Whip.

CHANGE NEEDED AT JEROME.

An Example that Should Be Heeded Set at Brighton Beach.

Judges Simmons and McDowell awoke with a start yesterday at Jerome Park. It was during the progress of the fifth race. They had seen George Taylor, who was riding Mr. stretch and get beaten by Silver Prince as a result. Instantly a dreadful suspicion of fraud fitted through their minds. It was a case of "two sonls with but a single thought," and Taylor was called up in the stand and sternly commanded to tell why he

It is a wonder that Taylor didn't laugh, but by a strong exercise of will power he kept his face straight. He explained that he dropped his whip by accident. Of course it was an accident, for it was plain enough that Taylor did all he possibly could to land Mr. Sass a But the judges, having awakened, should have gone further. They should have called the owner of Mr. Sass in the stand and asked him to explain the wonderful improvement in form made by his horse in forty-eight hours. They didn't, however. The necessity for three practical judges of racing, as urged by Troops will not move for several hours, if at THE EVENING WORLD, is plainly apparent. Racing at Jerome Park seems to be fizzling out. The programmes are singularly unat-tractive, and the crowds number hundreds instead of thousands. The Association could easily improve things by clipping out some of the handicars and substituting prizes for maiden contests, or penalty and allowance races, or races for non-winners of specified sums, selling races, or any other races which will bring together a decent crowd of horses.

There are not over a dozen good handicap horses in training, but, nevertheless, two or three handicaps are put upon the card every day. Infuse new life into the programme arrange some of the above-named contests and the result will be increased attendance, brisk speculation and a prosperous wind-up of the meeting. The Brighton Beach Association yesterday made an example of J. B. Brannon, an exhorse owner. It is alleged that he went to Mr. J. belong, the owner of Tanner, who won the fourth race yesterday, and asked for a certain sum to refrain from bidding his horse
